Santa Ana Churches To Observe Mothers' Day

MUSIC WILL BE FEATURED IN SERVICES

Special Sermons, Floral Tributes Are Arranged In Honor of Motherhood

PROGRAMS ANNOUNCED

Race, Color and Creed Forgotten as Congregations Honor Parenthood

ONE DAY has been set aside each year on which tribute is paid to motherhood the world over. Santa Ana churches have prepared for the annual Mothers' day services here tomorrow, and special programs will feature the respect with which citizens revere the mothers of men, regardless of race, color or creed.

Denominationalism vanishes on this day. Each church turns aside a moment to teach of the great heart and mother love. Nihilism, mother-sacrifice and the guiding hands of home will be the theme content of Sunday sermons throughout the entire city. An abundance of flowers today were being amassed to grace the altars of every church and to make of them true Maytime bowers of fragrance and living beauty. It has been said that on no other day in the year, with the exception of Easter, are blossoms used with such effectiveness. Practically all of the churches here will have committee members and young people waiting in the hallways and lobbies tomorrow, with pink and white carnations for members and friends of the congregations. The colored flowers signify living mothers and the white are significant of mothers who have passed away.

Musical Programs Planned
Word tributes and flowers do not alone comprise the plans for worship hours, for all the talent in this "city of music" is being directed to honor Mother's day in melody.

Features of the various church programs as announced for the regular services here are as follows:
First Christian church, the Rev. Walter Scott Buchanan, pastor.—Morning sermon subject, "Mother's Day." The Y. W. C. A. is to have charge of an evening service, "In Memory of Mother." Mrs. Princess Long noted American singer and a great mother, together with Robert Rush Taylor, of Los Angeles, will sing at the church services and at the Men's Community Bible class, at 9:30 a. m., in the Walke theater.

First Presbyterian church, the Rev. O. Scott McFarland, pastor.—The minister's morning sermon will be on the subject, "Mothers of Men," and his evening topic, "The Mother's Ministry." The church will honor the oldest mother, the mother of the largest number of children at the service and all mothers over 80 years of age. Mrs. George Lewis, Mrs. D. A. Bear, Mrs. N. J. Jones and Mrs. J. C. Kirby are committee chairmen who planned the arrangements for the day.

First Congregational church, the Rev. Perry Frederick Schrock.

Five Known To Have Died In Hotel Flames

Victims Trapped By Smoke In Texas Hostelry; 12 Are Injured

MARILLO, Texas, May 11.—(UP)—Ashes of the Tourist hotel yielded up five charred bodies today and searchers raked the ruins for other possible victims to a blaze which roared through the wooden structure early today.

The victims, trapped in the 30-year-old structure or overcome by smoke as they slept, were burned beyond recognition and immediate identification was impossible. Twelve were known to be injured in the fire, in addition to the five dead. Firemen still were searching the ruins for additional victims this afternoon.

The dead included two brothers named Sozart, of R. F. D. 1, Detroit, Texas. The name of one was Raymond. A third identified victim was found to be Pete Kearns, Pine, Colo. Two victims remained unidentified.

Most of the victims died in the flames. Several were reported severely or fatally injured when they jumped from their windows during the hysteria and confusion of the early morning blaze.

The hotel was a three-story structure built in the days when Amarillo was a struggling panhandle cow town.

One of the dead, said to have been known as "Buffalo Atchison," of Shamrock, Texas, died a few minutes after jumping from a third floor window.

CLAIMS PUBLIC OWNERSHIP HIT BY N. E. L. CO.

Wanted Canadian Report to Strike at Government Plan, Says Expert

WASHINGTON, May 11.—(UP)—Testimony that the National Electric Light association had attempted to discredit the publicly owned Ontario, Canada, hydroelectric plant was introduced today before the federal trade commission by Dr. S. S. Weyer, Columbus, O., consulting engineer.

The utility association had agreed to pay him $3000 for a survey of the Canadian power project, Weyer said, but they subsequently refused to accept his report because it was not sufficiently emphatic against government ownership.

"What they wanted," Weyer explained, "was a snappy report against government ownership and that I refused to make. I presented merely the facts and let the reader draw his own conclusion."

Opposed Public Operation
Nevertheless, Weyer admitted, the dominant note of his monograph was in opposition to government ownership, to which, he said, he is personally opposed. When the N. E. L. A. declined to publish his report, Weyer said, it was published under the interests of the Smithsonian institution.

RICH MAN SOUGHT IN GIRL'S DEATH

LOS ANGELES, May 11.—(UP)—A "Vancouver millionaire" was under investigation today in connection with the death of Delphine Walsh, 22-year-old Hollywood dancer, who was the victim of an illegal operation.
Questioning of a number of Miss Walsh's girl friends led to information connecting the Vancouver man with the case, William A. Bryne, special agent for the state medical board of examiners, said.
Two physicians, Dr. R. S. Lanterman and Dr. P. S. Traxler, are at liberty on $15,000 bonds each, charged with murder as a result of the death.

Knox Stresses S. A. Need For Civic Building

Mayor, Councilmen Believe Educational Campaign Necessary First

BY W. G. KNOX
City Manager of Santa Ana, I desire to express appreciation to those people who have put forth their efforts in making "Music week" not only a wonderful success but have given many of the citizens of Santa Ana the privilege of enjoying some of California's finest musical talent.

I have been in close touch with the week's musical activities, appreciating the wonderful privilege of enjoying this music and I have been especially interested in the handling of these affairs from a civic standpoint. As a close observer I regret to say that I have seen as many people turned away from the high school auditorium as have been privileged to enter and my mind has been overcome with the thought, "What a shame it is that hundreds of citizens of Santa Ana, who are interested and are seeking higher entertainment along educational lines, are denied this pleasure on account of the lack of an auditorium of adequate seating capacity."

NOTED FILM FLYER EXPELLED BY PILOTS

LOS ANGELES, May 11.—(UP)—Al Wilson, noted motion picture stunt flyer, "violated the unwritten rules of the air" by deserting a plane, which carried his mechanic to death on March 22, the Professional Pilots' association announced today in expelling Wilson from membership.

The statement of the association said that an investigation revealed that Wilson, flying a craft in the filming of "Hell's Angels," jumped from the plane prematurely and without giving warning to Phil Jones, who was crushed in the wreckage.

SEATTLE, May 11.—(UP)—The motorship Boobyalla, owned by the Pacific Motorship company, Seattle, was afire off Victoria, B. C., today, after offing to Advers Cove by the coast guard.
The cutter Haida and the tug Salvage King were alongside pumping water and steam into the engine room. The ship was heading for Royal Roads, the dispatch said.

Baby Boy Escapes Injuries As Truck Strikes Carriage

LOS ANGELES, May 11.—(UP)—Fifteen-month-old Ray Westlund, son of the former ski jumping champion of Sweden, today was the only unscathed survivor of a serious smashup which involved a runaway laundry truck, his baby carriage and a house.
The motor truck, driven by Deo Dooley, went out of control on a hill, it careened over a curb and crashed Ray's baby carriage against the side of the Westlund house.
Mrs. Westlund took one short look and was injured when she fell in a faint. Dooley was badly cut and his truck was almost demolished.
Ray was pulled from the wreckage of his cab by rescuers who found that pillows and blankets had protected him from harm.

See Church Peace Near In Mexico

WASHINGTON, May 11.—(UP)—Religious peace in Mexico between the church and state is more likely today than at any time since midnight July 31, 1928, when the priests deserted their churches in protest of Mexico's religious laws, it is intimated here in unofficial quarters.

Ambassador Morrow is understood still to be acting in a purely private capacity toward settlement of the dispute. In the role of a friend, Morrow could counsel his personal friends in the Mexican government, although he could not touch upon the subject as ambassador of the United States.

Domestic peace in Mexico cannot be assured, it is believed here, until the religious controversy is ended. Optimism among Mexican neutral and Catholic circles in Washington is predicated upon recent statements from President Portes Gil. Informed Catholics describe his public announcement absolving the Catholic church from complicity in the recent rebellion as indicative of a fair attitude and as greatly clearing the atmosphere in which the situation has been beclouded.

FOUR DEATHS ARE REPORTED IN CLOUDBURST

Kansas Cities Fight Floods As Torrential Rainfall Swells Streams

TOPEKA, Kas., May 11.—(UP)—Four persons were reported drowned and three others were listed as missing in unconfirmed reports from Herington, Kas., today in the wake of cloudbursts there.

Sections of central Kansas fought floods today in the wake of torrential rains which turned creeks into wild rivers.

The cloudbursts apparently were isolated deluges in the vicinity of Herington and Council Grove, in Dickinson and Morris counties.

At least a dozen homes were swept away and his business area flooded in Herington when a cloudburst fell there early today.

Lime creek, running through the town, was turned into a river when rain estimated between eight and 12 inches fell there within a few hours.

Council Grove suffered one of the heaviest rains and worst flood conditions of the upper Neosho river since 1903.

Herington reported Lime creek boiled over to a width of four miles. Most of the residents there escaped, but the two Mexicans were unable to swim when trapped by the sudden rise.

Rescue groups were organized immediately and put about on hastily fashioned rafts to search for possible victims and take those stranded to higher ground.

MAN SOUGHT IN ARIZONA AS ABDUCTOR

Violet Cecil Clair, 18, of Norwalk, Says She Was Forced to Marry Captor

TAKEN TO TIA JUANA

Claims Her Uncle Helped Frank O'Dell Make Get-away to Mexican Border

WEARY FROM the strain of a wild ride with her alleged abductor, one of whom she said was her uncle, Violet Cecil Clair, 18, pretty Norwalk girl, snapped out a story of her rascled kidnapping at the sheriff's office today, after she had been taken to Yuma, Ariz., and Tia Juana, Mexico, where she said she was forced to marry Frank O'Dell, 24, of Norwalk.

Screaming for help, the girl was kidnapped from the G. N. H. radio store on Main street, Seal Beach, late Thursday, by O'Dell and her uncle, Walter Rose, placed in a new car which had no license plates, and whisked away to Yuma, she related today to Deputy Sheriff M. E. Jensen and Deputy Sheriff Don Mozley at the sheriff's office. After a stop in Yuma, the party rushed on to Tia Juana, the girl said, and there O'Dell and her uncle demanded that she marry the former, she told the officers.

Returned to Norwalk
Thinking that the only way for her to escape the clutches of the two men and return to her relatives was to marry O'Dell, she finally gave in and the ceremony was performed, she said. The party returned to Norwalk where the girl was left, and she came at once to the sheriff's office with her grandmother, Fannie McCollum, to enlist the assistance of authorities.

Today Jensen is throwing out a police net in which he is determined to catch O'Dell, against whom a complaint charging kidnapping has been issued by District Attorney Z. B. West Jr.

Through a ruse it is hoped that he will be arrested in Yuma, where it is believed he had gone in order to forestall an indictment proceedings which he was led to believe had been started there.

After leaving the girl, O'Dell returned to her grandfather's home, looking for her, late yesterday, it was said. According to Jensen, he was told that her grandfather, Thomas McCollum, had gone to Yuma to start annulment proceedings. O'Dell rushed away and it is thought that he was headed for Yuma. Jensen has asked authorities there to apprehend him if he appears.

Seized In Radio Store

It is said that Rose had told McCollum that he would help O'Dell get the girl across the border to Tia Juana, or to Las Vegas, Nev., so that he could marry her. The girl was at the home of John and Jessie Rose, in Seal Beach, just prior to the alleged kidnapping, she said. They knew Walter Rose was planning to assist O'Dell in his marriage and kidnapping scheme, she said, and they went with her to the radio store, in an effort to throw the uncle and would-be bride groom off the track. Walter Rose came in the front door of the store and Violet ran to the back to avoid him. There she ran into the arms of O'Dell, who carried her to his car, which Rose was driving, she said. The car started at once on the wild ride which finally ended in Norwalk, the girl related.

It is understood that her relatives are considering taking steps to have the wedding annulled.

MYSTERY ADDED TO MURDER IN DOWNEY

DOWNEY, May 11.—(UP)—Further mystery was added to the murder of Louis Frahm, 40-year-old fruit merchant, today when authorities announced that two of the bullets fired into Frahm's head last Tuesday night were .38 caliber and a third was a .45 caliber.
Officers believe that two or more men participated in the killing of Frahm as he drove his automobile on a county highway near here.

21 Names Added To S. A. Chamber Of Commerce List

CIVIC LOYALTY IS REVEALED BY CITIZENS HERE

Twenty-one new names were added to the new membership lists of the local chamber of commerce as reports for the concluding drive came in this noon. The membership campaign, conducted Thursday and Friday, closes tonight.

Loyal workers have in the past three days made a gratifying showing in their membership drive and officials are well satisfied with the results of their efforts, it was said today. Many public spirited men have shown their civic loyalty by co-operating with the workers and becoming associated with the chamber during the whirlwind drive.

Before the campaign started Thursday, 27 new members mailed their checks.

Additional names have been placed with previous new member lists. These include F. J. Was, Fleetwood Bell, L. B. Armstrong, William Iverson, the Rev. O. Scott McFarland, R. C. Smedley, William McKay, the Rev. W. H. McPeak, L. A. Wallace, C. F. Burkholder, N. F. Prussing, J. Frank Rice, Charles Jolla, W. L. Hicks, A. S. McClary, Rae House, C. A. Democratic opposition. Unless some such peace arrangement is made, the westerners can join with the Democrats and control the house, rewriting the bill almost as they see fit.

Rainey Attacks Bill

While the tidings of this development eased the tension in the house, Democrats reopened on the floor their attack upon the bill. Representative Henry T. Rainey, of Carrollton, Ill., delivered an hour's broadside against the bill. "It is the worst of the 30 tariff bills this nation has considered," said Rainey. "In the history of tariff legislation in every country in the world, I have not yet heard of such monstrosity. It is indefensible in nearly every particular."

The facilities available in Santa Ana are entirely inadequate to our own citizens, much less being an attraction to the entire county populace. The throngs turned away from the programs in the high school auditorium during this last week were composed of people of all ages, old, middle aged and young people, all seeking to enjoy the better class of entertainment; and this is the type of citizenry that we desire to have as "our people."

We spend money, time and sincere effort in advertising the attractions of our city as a desirable place for conventions and we have been gratified and pleased with the number of small conventions held here, however, should the opportunity present itself for bringing a large convention to Santa Ana we have no place to offer which would serve as an adequate convention hall.

Psychological Time

Since witnessing the disappointment of so many people during the last week, it occurs to me that this is the psychological time for the citizens of Santa Ana to sponsor a movement for the erection of a civic auditorium of sufficient size to accommodate not only our own citizens but to serve as a real attraction to the whole of Orange county.

Statements received today from members of the city council in regard to Santa Ana's need of a civic auditorium follow:

BY MAYOR F. L. PURINTON

One of Santa Ana's greatest needs has been brought to our minds very forcibly in the past week, and that is of a civic auditorium for women to cost $475,000 passed and signed by Governor Young.

torium. Our increased population and the fact that the future holds the promise of a much greater logical increase, will demand such civic advantages and the citizens are facing the necessity of bringing such things to pass.

Just at present I doubt if a bond issue for such a project would carry. The community is not yet awake to its needs and its lacks. An educational program is needed first, with publicity and yet more publicity, to keep hammering the facts home in the minds of the citizens.

BY WILLIAM J. KELLY

This matter of the need of a civic auditorium is one that cannot be settled without considerable thought and investigation. I believe there is little question but that the need is a well-recognized one, but whether it is urgent enough just at the present, to warrant the necessary bond issue and the consequent expenditure, in view of other improvements of equal or greater importance, is a question which I have not fully revolved in my own mind.

BY J. L. M'BRIDE

There is no question in my mind as to the need of a civic auditorium in Santa Ana, but the question arises as to the education of the general public to this need.

In order to be successful in putting over the necessary bond issue, just at present the school bonds should be our first consideration as schools are the most necessary thing in our civic life. We all recognize that it is poor policy to attempt too many things at one time, so first consideration must be given to the matter of first importance. The matter of a civic auditorium has been discussed pro and con for the last 10 years and a bond issue was attempted just about 10 years ago, but the community wasn't ready for the question at the time, so the measure was defeated. We should not want such a thing to happen again, so it would be better to take one matter at a time, and allow the need for such an improvement as the auditorium, to come home to the people through an educational program.

BY STANLEY GOODE

There are so many things that Santa Ana needs, to give her equal advantage with other cities of Southern California, and one of these very definite needs is for a new city hall with a civic auditorium.

However it seems to me that every time a bond issue is proposed, every one steps forward with his own private belief of what constitutes the most pressing need, until we are inclined to scatter our powers over too much territory, with no great good accomplished in any one project. So just at present my interests are all centered in the school bond issue and I'm "for it" 100 per cent. When that is accomplished I am ready to give the same attention to water conservation as the next thing of outstanding importance to be accomplished. After that I am ready to work for the third big cause, and see no reason why the civic auditorium and city hall should not be the goal.

AVOCADO TYPES DISCUSSED AT RANCH SESSION

C. E. Utt led the discussion on the avocado industry at a meeting of growers of this fruit held at the Hewes ranch this week.

The meeting opened with a breakfast dinner in Hewes park, with D. Eymann Huff as the host. Calavo salad accompanied the breakfast as a part of an elaborate menu.

Utt outlined the leading objectives of the industry, declaring the most important to be the selection of types of fruit most suitable to be shipped to eastern markets. An all year market production was urged, in order, he said, to keep eastern customers supplied with the fruit at a reasonable price.

During the discussions it was brought out that success of the avocado industry depends on a market being developed along the lines now used by citrus fruit growers, strong organization and united effort being necessary, it was agreed.

G. B. Hodgins, secretary-manager of the association, presided at the meeting, C. V. Newman, who is president, being absent.

Other speakers were W. B. Williams, George Marcey and the host, D. Eymann Huff.

FRANCES PERALTA ON KENT PROGRAM

Preference revealed by the "fan mail" from thousands of radio enthusiasts will be reflected in the programs of the Atwater Kent 1929 summer series of Sunday night concerts. Beginning with the concert by Frances Peralta, soprano of the Metropolitan opera tomorrow night, over the NBC and KFI, and continuing for 21 weeks, the "old sweet songs" that have charmed millions of Atwater Kent listeners will provide the dominating theme for these programs.

Seventeen vocalists and instrumentalists of proven radio popularity will be heard during the series, in addition to the Atwater Kent quartet and the Atwater Kent orchestra, each of which has attained a large following.

In recognition of the satisfactory reception now general throughout the summer time and to meet the demands of those with whom the Atwater Kent hour has become a Sabbath evening institution, the series will continue through the summer months on a coast-to-coast hookup.

LEMON. FISHER TO SPEND YEAR IN COUNTY JAIL

Probation with one year county jail terms attached was granted yesterday to Norman Lemon, 20, and Lester Fisher, 23, who had pleaded guilty to burglary charges in Superior Judge James L. Allen's court.

Lemon and Fisher told stories today which listed a large number of small burglaries in Santa Ana, Tustin and Orange. Usually, Lemon said, the crimes were preceded by consumption of wine tonic. A 17-year-old Tustin girl who was not named, completed the trio, Lemon and Fisher said.

Lemon told the court he had robbed one house because a sign on the exterior said it was haunted. He wanted to find out about that, he stated. He admitted that he had served time at the Preston School of Industry at Ione on two occasions. He was out of work when most of the crimes were committed, he stated.

Fisher alleged that he was innocent of actual perpetration of the thefts but that Lemon always had divided with him. He became suspicious about the origin of the money after a robbery at Tustin, he said. On questioning by the court he admitted that he had continued to take the money after this discovery.

In making his decision Judge Allen pointed out that he questioned whether the boys would make good, but indicated that he preferred to give them a chance rather than to subject them to the influence of hardened criminals at San Quentin. Deputy District Attorney S. B. Kaufman and Sam L. Collins appeared for the prosecution, Kaufman alleging that Fisher also was guilty of statutory rape. W. F. Menton, Santa Ana, represented Fisher while Lemon was represented by Leroy Anderson, of Costa Mesa.

Kitten Decides To Descend Pole By Own Efforts

After all rescue plans were made and men from the telephone company were on the way yesterday morning to make the climb to the top of a pole where a kitten had been marooned since Thursday morning, the feline, evidently spurred on by the pangs of hunger, made the descent by its own efforts. Neighbors of the vicinity in the 1100 block on West First street, Santa Ana, police, the city poundmaster and telephone company employees were involved in the rescue attempt that the kitten thwarted by its own act.

Cars Collide At Stafford, Minter

H. E. Wright, of 125 West Seventeenth street, was the driver of a motor car which struck the left rear wheel of a sedan driven by Francis Harvey, son of L. F. Harvey, of 494 Lucy street, at the corner of Stafford and Minter streets yesterday noon.

Wright's coupe was overturned when he attempted to turn a corner to avoid hitting Harvey's car. He was driving south on Minter street.

Harvey was driving, accompanied by his father, toward their home. He is a worker in the local post office. No one was hurt.

Annexation Of Areas Not Aim Of Civic Group

Annexation of areas to Santa Ana is not to be sought by the annexation committee of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce, rather, any annexation movement must come from those concerned in the project and not through initiation of the chamber of commerce.

This, in effect, was the policy announced yesterday by the committee, which had been called together by its chairman, A. B. Roussele. The committee was appointed recently by W. C. Jerome, president of the Chamber of Commerce.

That annexation when mutually beneficial to both the city and the area proposed for annexation should be encouraged and given assistance was declared by some of the members of the committee, but the effort to secure annexation should come from those outside the city.

MISS CIANFONI IN LEAD FOR HONORS

With victory practically assured, only a major upset can prevent Miss Margaret Cianfoni from being crowned as Donna for the annual Spanish fiesta celebration at the Santa Ana junior college May 17.

Balloting is being conducted at the college with votes at one cent each. Four girls are in the race, with Miss Cianfoni having 236 votes, 131 more than Miss Doris Goff, her nearest competitor. The Misses Melva Fletcher and Barbara Isch have 45 and 40 each.

In the race for Don, Baxter Geeting is ahead so far, but when the voting closes Tuesday, he may be pressed by any of six competitors. Geeting, prominent in forensics, has polled 212 ballots. Harold Hyton, football star, 147. Joe Warner, 92. Joe Olivaris, 72. Victor Almaraz, 30. Rex Brown, 22 and Delmar Brown, 20. Votes are expected to pile up on the last day. The Don and Donna are the chiefs of the yearly event and are to be crowned by the Rev. Father St. John O'Sullivan, of San Juan Capistrano. John Steven McGroarty, author of the famous Mission Play, has been secured to speak during the fiesta.

College Summer Session At L. B. To Open June 14

The Pomona college summer session at the Laguna Beach marine laboratory will open June 14 for the 15th season. This division of the Pomona college summer session is under the direction of Dr. William A. Students who are about to enter college as well as college and post-graduate students will be admitted.

Y. M. C. A. BOYS TO HOLD CAMP RALLY

Y. M. C. A. boys will hold their spring camp rally this evening, preparatory to the enlistment of the 75 fortunate lads who will attend the "Y" camp at South Fork this summer.

Meeting at 8:30 o'clock they will hike out to Santiago creek, and then proceed down the creek for a short distance, to the place where the camp fire and food will be found. In the creek bed the boys will spend an hour or two in games, camp fire program and eating. W. S. Kellogg will have charge of the program, and Dr. G. E. Raitt will speak, in addition to numbers given by the boys.

Boy's Secretary T. P. McKee will have charge of the event, with the assistance of several camp leaders. It will include pleasing entertainment for the boys, and will serve to stimulate interest in the plans for the annual summer camp.

LA HABRAN VICTIM OF HEART FAILURE

At a coroner's inquest held yesterday over the body of Mrs. George Stubbs, of La Habra, who was in an automobile accident in Ontario yesterday, it was revealed that Mrs. Stubbs died as the result of heart failure and shock and that her neck was not broken as was at first thought.

A daughter of the deceased, Mrs. Merritt Stanfield, is expected to arrive here Monday noon from Chicago to make funeral arrangements. Mrs. Stanfield's husband will accompany her.

Police News

Officers Nicholson and Hants-harger made a trip to the 1200 block on East First street at 3:20 o'clock this morning in response to a report that suspicious characters were prowling about the neighborhood, but the suspects had fled before the officers arrived.

A. J. Hollman, of 1330 Linden avenue, Long Beach, reported to police authorities last night that his wife had been cut about the face when the windshield of his car was broken by a rock thrown in the 1300 block on West First street shortly after 9 o'clock.

A city light standard was cracked and the globe broken when a Triange Express truck delivery freight at the Motor Transit depot backed into the standard at Third and Spurgeon streets at 5:20 last night.

A report that boy in a car parked in the 800 block on Minter street last night were bothering passing girls was investigated by Sergeant Perry, who reported that the car had moved on by the time he got there.

Found guilty of intoxication in the Anaheim city court, W. B. Robertson, 40, newspaper man, of 211 North Grand street, Los Angeles, was brought to the county jail yesterday afternoon by Officer Anderson of the Anaheim police to start serving a sentence of 15 days following his failure to pay a fine of $30.

EXPERIENCED LEADS PLAY IN 'MACBETH'

Previous training of the principal characters in the coming Santa Ana Junior college Shakespearean production "Macbeth" will contribute much to the success of the undertaking, stated Ernest Crozier Phillips, coach of the tragedy. The play will be given May 17.

Mona Summers Smith as Lady Macbeth and Ray Lindman as Macbeth are both well known to local theatergoers. Mrs. Smith has been connected with the local Community Players for the past few years, giving many finished characterizations. She will be remembered for her work in "Three Wise Fools," "Enter Madame," "Love in a Mist" and "Seventh Heaven." Before coming to Santa Ana she was connected with the community players in Springfield, Ill., and later with the Theater Guild in San Francisco. While with the latter organization, she gave an impressive performance in O'Neill's "The Hairy Ape."

Ray Lindman was formerly connected with the Pasadena Community Players. Coming to Santa Ana, he played the part of Petruchio in "The Taming of the Shrew," the Shakespearean production given by the local college last year. Lindman has also appeared in many other local productions, both of school and community.

Mrs. Smith and Lindman are both enrolled in Mr. Phillips' advanced drama class and are members of the junior college. The play is being given as the final event on the annual Spanish fiesta program May 17.

BOY SCOUT BOARD HITS CIGARET ADS

A firm stand against billboard advertising of cigarettes and tobacco which "falsely represents and incoherently exploits boys and girls as subjects" had been taken today by the executive board of the Orange county council, Boy Scouts of America. At the last meeting of the board, April 19, a resolution was adopted setting forth the council's position in the matter.

The document states that the board believes such advertising creates false and misleading representations and that the board wishes to join with all organizations which are protesting against such publicity. It pledges the board to give its wholehearted support to a program for elimination of the use of boys and girls as subjects in all forms of advertising which tend to represent the youth of the community wrongfully.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—
Gus Waldron, a referee, was knocked out in Trenton, N. J. ... One of the fighters let go with a wild swing and clipped him right on the jaw. ... The Brooklyn have four first basemen. ... They are Bissonette, Herman, Bressler and Hendrick. ... And they have a pitcher. ... His name is "Dizzy" Vance. ... And they say he's worth 50 grand a year instead of 25. ... Ed Walsh, coach of the White Sox, said he would be the happiest man in the land. ... If Notre Dame would beat Holy Cross. ... Mel Ott, young Giant outfielder, has had trouble with his legs ever since he came up as a great prospect. ... Chick Meahan, N. Y. U. football coach, saw him in a recent game and told McGraw he knew just what was the matter with him. ... "He stops too quick after a sprint. That's the best and easiest way in the world to get a charley-horse." ... He said. ... And McGraw went to work on the young man. ... Willie Stribling has taken an examination to become a shave in the U. S. Reserve Air corps. ... Herr Schmeling sent postcards from Germany to all the New York boxing writers. ... And they were all in Billy McCarney's handwriting.

WATCH 'EM IS RIGHT
E. S. Barnard, president of the American league, has seen all his clubs in action this spring and he advances the opinion that there are two clubs who ought to be watched in particular. The two most dangerous clubs in the league, in his back-hand way of committing himself, are the Philadelphia Athletics and the St. Louis Browns. And he apparently likes the A's better than the Browns. "The Yankees have lost the steadiness that carried them over the rough spots last season and their pitching staff has failed," he said.

GETTING HEART
After the first series between the Yankees and the Athletics there are any number of experts who think more highly of Connie Mack's chances to win than they did when they looked over the clubs in the southern training section. Some opinions that the Athletics were without courage in a tight sport are being revised. Already the A's have won half as many games from the Yankees as they did through the entire course of the 1928 season and young Henry Johnson hasn't been able to handle them as he did last year. Every time Johnson went out to pitch for the Yankees last season the Athletics were wicketed from the start and it was his particular talent for knocking off the nearest rivals of his club that kept him on the Yankee payroll.

COULDN'T GET AWAY
The reformation of the spirit of Mack's club and the failure of the Giants to get started have been two interesting features of the early season. John McGraw, in San Antonio, made no secret of the fact that he was depending a whole lot on getting the jump at the start. He wanted a good lead before he had to meet the strong western clubs. "Our strongest opposition should come from the western clubs," he said. "I do not consider the eastern clubs as easy marks, but they ought to be easier than the western clubs." The Giants have been kicked around considerably by the Phillies, the Braves and the Robins. And the Giants did not have the cherished lead when they met the western clubs. But in the long run it may equalize itself. Perhaps the Phillies, the Braves and the Robins

Saints Wallop South Pasadena In Slugfest

THREE HURLERS BOW TO SAINTS' BATS: 3 HOMERS

Finding themselves for the first time since the Coast Preparatory league opened, the Santa Ana high school baseball team pounded three South Pasadena pitchers for 16 hits and 19 runs at Poly field yesterday afternoon, winning the one sided contest 19 to 7.

John Willcutt, Saint hurler, was in rare form and whiffed 10 batters, while "Lefty" Johnston, outfielder, had a great day at the bat, knocking the ball over the fence on his first two trips to the pan. Captain Curt Youel also contributed a timely homer in the fifth with the bases filled. The Saints had four big innings, getting five in the second, four in the third, five in the fifth and five in the seventh. After Johnston and Youel came Jimmy Hall with three singles, Lloyd Kneeland with two doubles and a single, Russell Sullivan, two singles, Reichstein, a double and a single, and a single apiece for John Willcutt, Paul Wright, Wayne Vance and Bob Beaver.

The five counters in the second stanza were made by Johnston's homer, first base for Vance on an error, a single by Reichstein. Wright's walk, and a single by Hall. In the third, Youel flied out and then Kneeland lifted one with a foot of going over the left field fence. Johnston poked out his second homer, scoring Kneeland, after which Vance singled, Reichstein doubled and Vance scored on Wright's hit. Wright was caught napping on second but in the confusion, Reichstein came on home.

In the fifth period, the Saints chalked up five more tallies. Vance reached first on an error, Reichstein sacrificed to second, Willcutt walked, Wright singled but Vance was out at the plate. Willcutt scored on a wild pitch, Hall and Sullivan both walked and Youel brought them all in with a towering homer over the right field fence.

With the score 14 to 3 going into the seventh, Coach Bill Foote's boys made five more runs. Sullivan reached first on a pop fly, stole second and came in when Youel flied out. Beaver doubled and came all the way home on successive bad throws. Johnston and Streeter both walked and were scored when Willcutt singled sharply to shortstop. Willcutt scored when Wright singled.

South Pasadena made one run in the third, fifth and seventh and two in the eighth and ninth. The longest Tiger hit was a double in the sixth. The Saints will meet Glendale next Friday.

DIFFER FROM OLD STYLE RULERS LATEST MODELS IN FISTIC CHAMPS

PRETTY PROFILES, OVAL FACES AND ARCHED EYEBROWS MARK BOYS OF TODAY, SAYS EDGREN

By ROBERT EDGREN
If you look at the latest models in boxing champions, and compare them with the birds who held titles when it was customary for champions to work at their trade instead of posing as literati, or beauty models, you may notice a slight difference in their looks. Our business geniuses trying to tap out fortunes without risk have different profiles. They are nice smooth-looking lads, with oval faces, round soft chins, arched eyebrows. You glance at them and wonder where they carry their lipsticks and powder puffs.

They have perfectly straight noses, ears like rose petals, and foreheads that rise perpendicularly from their eyebrows to their hair. To add to the scholarly effect they wear "college boy hats," or like college boys, wear no hats at all. They try to look entirely unlike fighters. And that's all right. They aren't fighters, even though they have the shoulders of fighters and probably could fight pretty well if somebody offered them substantial proof that they couldn't get the money any other way.

Slanting Brow Was Mark
The slanting brow was the mark of the old time champions. They all had slanting brows and bulgy eyebrows. This peculiar characteristic of the fighter isn't new. The cavemen had those protruding brow effects. Students of cranial construction say this denotes superior perceptiveness. That is, the slanting brow and bump over the eyebrows indicates superior ability to see a punch coming in time to duck, or to see an opening in time to cop with a sock on the button.

In some cases the bumpy eyebrows may indicate a habit of ducking into punches and taking them on the eyebrows rather than on the chin. But in either case the man with slanting brow is almost always a fighter. Some say a slanting brow indicates lack of intelligence, and that anyone who fights for a living can't be intelligent. But there's nothing notably dumb about getting up where an evening's light labor earns $100,000.

The Pittsburgh Windmill
Bob Fitzsimmons was the smartest fighter in history. He had a sloping brow. So did Jeffries, the behemoth of all battlers and Willard, who knocked out Johnson. Harry Greb, middleweight world's champion and American lightweight champion, was the fightingest bit of humanity in recent years. Jack Dempsey said Greb was "a busy bee—always stinging." He whipped Tom Gibbons and Gene Tunney—both much bigger. Greb had the most sloping forehead I remember seeing. His eyebrows bulged out in a bump an inch thick, and he must have had that acute perceptiveness, because he could hit from everywhere at once and land everything.

Jack Dillon, light-heavyweight champion, was a great fighter—so much better than his class that he went out of it and whipped Weir, Frank Moran, Tom Cowler, the great Gunboat Smith, and a score of other heavyweights. He had the fighter's facial angle. Benny Leonard had a very long head with plenty both back and in front of the ears, a high forehead, but the fighter's slanting brow and bulge over the eyes. Benny was a thinker in the ring. If any man gave him a tough fight once Benny whipped him easily in a second fight. And he could fight like a streak and punch like a middleweight. Joe Gans had a facial angle something like Leonard's. Same type, intelligent, thinking fighter, a furious and effective mixer when stung. Jack Dempsey was the ideal

LOW HURDLES, 440 EXPECTED TO FEATURE BIG COLLEGE TRACK MEET IN COLISEUM NEXT WEEK

LOS ANGELES, May 10.—Two of the fastest races of the year in the 440-yard dash and 220-yard low hurdles are expected when the University of Southern California, Stanford, California and U. C. L. A. track teams meet in the first annual California Intercollegiate track and field championships May 18 at the Los Angeles Coliseum.

The quarter-mile field will have such speed merchants as Vic Williams and Gerald Pearson of S. C. and Johnny Morrison and Maynard Shove of Stanford, while the low hurdles will be a battle between Ward Edmonds of Stanford, Al Pogliotti of California and Jimmy and Ernie Payne of Southern California.

A great finish is expected in the quarter with Williams and Morrison doped to be leading the race at the tape. Both boys set a hot pace and finish with a terrific sprint and it looks as though the runner with the most stamina left for the final 10-yard dash to the tape will be the winner. Williams holds one decision over Morrison, having beaten the Stanford star at Palo Alto in 49 3-5 seconds. Morrison, however, ran the distance in 48 4-5 seconds later in the California-Card meet. Williams also improved his time recently, running the quarter in 49 1-5 seconds in the A. A. U. championships last Saturday.

The recent improvement of Jimmy Payne, who has been out of condition most of the season through illness, adds special interest to the low hurdle event. Edmonds of Stanford upset the dope to win the race in the Southern California-Stanford dual meet from Ernie Payne, S. C.'s second during Payne, but Jimmy's return to condition during the last week or two makes Edmonds' task of repeating his victory in the California Intercollegiate look like a tough one.

Pogliotti, the California star who has been slowed down until the last few weeks with a bad ankle, is also getting back his speed and will be another first place possibility in the May 18 race. The veterans Jockey, "Pony" McAtee, who rode Whiskery to a Derby victory in 1927, will be astride Clyde Van Dusen in the coming Kentucky Derby. Farrell, who was second yesterday with a total of 298, and Leo Diegel, who was third with 299, will play several exhibition matches on British courses before going over on the continent for tournaments in Germany and England. The majority of the American professionals, including Johnny France,

PAUL REBOIN RUN IN TRACK CLASSIC TODAY

Because of its impressive victory in the Southern California championship events, the San Diego high school team is favored to win the annual state track and field prep school meet at the Coliseum here today.

Records are expected to fall as the athletes of San Diego, Jefferson and Hollywood, outstanding in the Southern section, meet those from Bakersfield, Fresno, Sacramento and Tulare, leaders in northern California. From Santa Ana, Alvin Reboin and Norman Paul will be entered in three events, Paul in the low hurdles and broad jump and Reboin in the low hurdles. Paul will be a favorite to repeat. He has run the low sticks as low as 24 seconds, and has marks of 22 feet 5 inches in the broad jump. Reboin lost out in his favorite event, the high hurdles by tripping, but will give all he has in the low barriers.

BASKETBALL TEAM RECEIVES TROPHIES

Presentation of gold basketballs to the members of the championship class B basketball team at the Santa Ana high school was the highlight of the weekly assembly held yesterday. The hoop squad won the Southern California title and those receiving the gold awards were Capt. Jimmy Hall, Russell Sullivan, Asa Herren, Elwood Lindley, Bill Erbe and Joe McChesney. Coach Bill Cook received a gold emblem from the team. Other numbers on the program consisted of a one-act play, "White Elephants," by the junior college drama class, coached by Ernest Crozier Phillips. The cast included Wylie Carlyle, William Jerome and Miss Stinson. Peggy Warburton and Emmaline Richards played several violin numbers, accompanied by Marjorie Walton at the piano. A news reel by the courtesy of the Yost Broadway theater was shown.

HARD FOUGHT GAME WON IN FOURTH FRAME

Well, folks, they're at it again! Meaning, of course, that bunch of baseball players that see and play only at night in the bowl on Olive street. The bowl has been dark these many winter months, but last night it was illuminated again in all its brilliancy, the old crowd was there, even to the soft toned pop corn seller, and the night baseball season is on.

Playing in mid-season form against a team which in itself failed to show any lack of ability of training, the Santa Ana All-Stars opened the county night baseball league here last night by beating Garden Grove, 8 to 1. The game, first under the bright lights for the "after supper" fans this year, was marked by brilliant plays, tight situations, clever base running and mid-summer catches, while "Stucky" Stockbridge, Ochoa and Morrill, pitchers, were in rare form. Five hits were garnered by each team, but a poor fourth inning for Garden Grove, allowed three Santa Ana players to cross the pan and clinch the game. Aside from the fourth inning Santa Ana failed to score. The Garden Grove run came in the ninth inning. That pitching is to again play a prominent part in night baseball here this year was in evidence in the first game of the year, no one player getting more than one safe blow during the evening.

All of the "old regulars" of the Santa Ana team of last year were present last night, there being virtually no change in the lineup from that of last season, with the exception that Scott is holding down the hot infield spot, where "Memphis" Hill operated last year.

fighter. He fought his best against odds, beating much bigger men. Sudden, furious, relentless. Dempsey was such an outstanding figure among champions that even now when he is through with the game, he's a more popular figure than any little holder. Dempsey had the perfect fighting profile. Slanting forehead, protruding brow, high cheek bones and square jaw of an Indian, rounded and obstinate chin. His eyebrows meet over his nose. That is common to many fighters—McGovern, Jeffries, a lot of others.

By the way, Gene Tunney, intellectual-in-chief in fistfights, has that sloping forehead and protruding brow. And probably he was more fighter than student of literature, if he is now taking a lally swim in the Mediterranean with Bernard Shaw. He certainly did some slam bang socking with Dempsey at both Philadelphia and Chicago.

WHERE ARE THE OTHERS?
At the time of writing, the Yankee pitching staff could be mentioned in one name—Waite Hoyt, and the utter failure of the other pitchers may explain why the Yankees have been unable to get the jump on the other clubs that they got last year.

Huggins appears to be discouraged about Herb Pennock. He says he is not going to call on Pennock for regular work until Pennock says he is ready to go. And Pennock admits frankly he doesn't know how his arm is or when he will be ready to work regularly.

MAY TWELFTH IS MOTHER'S DAY

HOME and Mother

THOSE TWO WORDS are linked inseparably in the hearts and minds of most of us. Today—"Mother's Day"—we think about them a little more deeply.

Today, too, in this association, we think with pleasure upon the great number of families in this vicinity that we have enabled to have homes of their own. Many a mother, through the friendly co-operation of this association, has known the joy of home ownership and has had the opportunity of giving her children the background that they are entitled to—a home of their own.

It is the privilege of an association such as the Santa Ana Building and Loan Association to deal with problems that affect the happiness and welfare of our citizens. That is why we are community builders.

COUNTY SWIM STARS ENTER CLUB MEET

SAN CLEMENTE, May 11.—

Three San Clemente Beach club swimmers will be entered in the Annadale Country club meet at Pasadena on May 25. This was the original date of the Southern championships in San Clemente but the Spanish village date was set back to June 1. Coach Frank Holbrook will enter Marjorie Love and Adeline Whaling in the 100-yard free style event. Dorothy Moriarty will take part in a special 50-yard free style event.

Dorothy Moriarty, 12 years old, is the sensation of the beach club team. She has yet to lose a competitive race at 50 yards, free style. In her, Holbrook says, he has a potential champion. Dorothy will give exhibitions in back stroke, breast stroke and free style swimming at the Annadale meet.

Add water—an abundance of it—to these ideal conditions and you have the exact features of the tract held by the Orange County Development Co. Here soil, water and climate have combined to make Valencia orange grove development an assured success.

The Company has no real estate to sell. You cannot buy any acreage on this most favored tract. But you can share in the money to be made in the development of it. There's an opportunity to make money—lots of it—in the El Toro district. It's right at your very door. Turn the tried and proven plan of the Orange County Development Co. the way is open to you to get your full share. Ask The Newton Company to give you the details.

NEW WATER WELL IS SECURED ON PROPERTY NEAR EL TORO; COMPANY LETS PIPE CONTRACT

Proving that the El Toro district is plentifully supplied with water, two good producers have been secured on the 150-acre property of the Orange County Development company, located two miles north of El Toro. A new well has just been completed on the concern's holdings.

The well is flowing 40 miner's inches, the same flow as the one brought in some time ago on the opposite side of the property.

The company has just let a contract to the National Cement Pipe company for irrigation pipes for the tract. Eighty-five hundred Valencia trees have been purchased and will be set out on 100 acres. Later on the remaining 50 acres will be planted to Valencia oranges.

That the district has attracted the attention of experienced citrus experts is seen in the fact that a number of well known growers have purchased land in the district and have developed excellent producers there.

The Orange County Development company's acreage was purchased last fall from the Whiting company. The district is declared frostless and free of desert winds.

The Jerome brothers and the Collar Nursery company have acquired 60 acres adjoining this property and plan extensive developments there.

Several years ago the Las Alisos company acquired 150 acres from the Whiting company and set the property to oranges, water being found in abundance.

THERE IS A REASON

Successful business men invest only after careful investigation. That's why they are successful. When civic and county leaders—successful business men—soil and citrus growing experts—all join in an enterprise it must possess all the factors that make for success.

It is these men who have organized and invested their funds in the Orange County Development Company. They see the opportunities such a corporation offers for profit.

Let the Newton Company give you all the details, all the facts. Let us show you why men of high standing and financial success have invested their time and money in the company. Let us show you some startling figures and prove to you that where these men lead you can follow with confidence. There is positively no obligation involved. Call or write the Newton Company today.

Secure License After Marriage Annulled By Court

Keeping pace with the swift whirl of modern life, Amos S. Reynolds, 48, of Glendale, had their marriage annulled in superior court yesterday and then without losing any time, dashed into the marriage license bureau where they filed an application to be wed.

Amos Reynolds brought suit against his wife yesterday and the annulment was granted on the same day. According to the complaint, Mrs. Reynolds had another husband living at the time she married Reynolds in 1915. The former spouse's name was Clarence Henry Morey, the complaint declared. It was pointed out that Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds had not separated because they intended to remarry as soon as the annulment was granted. Accordingly they made application for a license yesterday. Mrs. Reynolds' application, however, was signed Frances J. Morey.

NEW GUN CLUB ORGANIZED BY S. A. OFFICERS

A new gun club, to be known as the Santa Ana Skeet club, is in process of organization by a group of local gun enthusiasts headed by A. L. Steward, deputy sheriff, and Vernon Barnhill, state traffic officer.

Steward announced today that 17 men have signed up as charter members and that the first shoot will be held as soon as eight additional members are secured. Plans for the first blast of the guns are being tentatively made for May 18.

The name of the club, Steward said, is derived from the system which will be adopted, which is the latest method of shooting clay pigeons and affords gunners the best practice for wing shooting. Both traps are operated by one man and afford the man behind the gun, shots at 17 singles and four sets of doubles for a full score. The pigeon comes at eight different angles in the layout of the grounds, with different leads and speeds for each. This factor, Steward asserted, will enable the amateur wing shot as good a chance to roll up a good score as a professional.

Members signed up so far, in addition to Steward and Barnhill, include Ernest Winbigger, Henry Sel, W. Roy George, F. W. Howard, Charles Guard, Bert West, H. C. Meehan, A. B. Meehan, D. E. Liggett, Joe Finley, Frank Sawyer, Sam Collins, J. Fred Parsons, Major Anderson and Jesse Buckles.

Says 100,000,000 In India Live On Two Cents Per Day

One hundred million people in India live on two cents a day. This statement was made to members of the Knights of the Round Table at their meeting yesterday noon at St. Ann's Inn by the Rev. M. L. Pearson, of Orange. The Rev. Mr. Pearson stressed the poverty and ancient methods of doing business in India. The country is fertile and with improved methods, and machinery would be able to produce vast quantities of goods, the speaker indicated.

Leslie M. Pearson was in charge of the program arrangements, which were given over to stressing music week. D. C. Clafoni, director of the municipal band, introduced Georgia Belle Walton, who played a violin solo, "Spanish Dance," and Sylvia White, a solo, who also played a violin solo. Both are students of E. wood Bear, Santa Ana violin instructor.

Marion Pletke, 9, a student of Caroline Houghton, played a piano solo, "Gypsy Love Song." Miss Allien Lair accompanied all the musicians on the piano.

CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY

Mrs. Mary Emerson, pictured below, celebrated her eighty-fifth birthday anniversary one day this week. She wore a quaint frock that had been made for her when she was sixteen. Friends sent her many lovely bouquets in celebration of the occasion, some of which are shown here.

Baskets of the same lovely blossoms were arranged about the room, making an attractive setting for the brilliantly gowned women and their escorts.

Following the bridge games, scores were added by the hostess who was assisted in her pleasant duties by Mrs. Grace Zaiser, Mrs. T. A. Winbiger, Mrs. Wilfred Doll, and Miss Bess Wood. Scores of husbands and wives were combined, making Mr. and Mrs. Earl Morrow high with Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Haddon second, Mrs. J. P. Baumgartner and Dr. Harry Zaiser were consoling.

Mrs. Mary Emerson Is Hostess at Birthday
Affair Wednesday

Seldom are members of the Congregational Woman's Union privileged to enjoy such a delightful event as an eighty-fifth birthday party, but that was the unique experience shared Wednesday by northwest section members of the union, who were entertained by Mrs. Mary Emerson in her home at 810 Riverine avenue, and discovered that their hostess was celebrating her eighty-fifth birthday.

That some of them knew the happy date in advance was proven by the array of beautiful blossoms with which Mrs. Emerson was surrounded, and the airy rooms of her home glowed like a spring garden with every variety of flower now blooming. A wreath of exquisite Cecil Brunner buds had been twined for her hair and she reigned from the midst of her blossoms, a veritable May queen. She had donned for the occasion, a quaint silken gown in delicate blue with tiny pattern in rose tones, whose wide bell sleeves, quaintly fluted bodice and sweeping skirts had been the pride of her heart when she was a maiden of "sweet sixteen."

Mrs. Freeman Bloodgood conducted the program to which each one present contributed an amusing story, a song or a bit of verse, resulting in an enjoyable and entertaining afternoon.

At the tea hour, the delectable of sandwiches, cheese straws and coffee were served, followed by ice cream and birthday cake. There were several of these delectable cakes, an especially inviting one having been the gift of Mrs. Perry Frederick Schrock, wife of Mrs. Emerson's pastor.

Despite having reached and passed the eighty-fifth milestone, Mrs. Emerson continues her active interest in church and club affairs, and is a member of the Santa Ana Woman's club as well as of Congregational church circles. She was a singer of wide renown in the days of her young womanhood, and still retains an interest in everything musical. Her mastery of French led her to an expression of patriotism during the World war, when she conducted classes in French for the boys who were called into service and would be sent abroad.

Reunion Is Among Most Delightful Affairs
Of Past Week

One of the most delightful events of the past week was the Colorado party given at the home of Mrs. Irene McNeill, 1109 North Main street, this city by Mrs. McNeill, Mrs. Ross McNeill, Miss Dorothy McNeill of Los Angeles, and Mrs. Charles Goode and Mrs. Frank Goode of Orange.

A feature of the afternoon's entertainment was a guessing contest of Colorado towns and Mrs. Virgil Luter McClelland of La Cressa won first place and Mrs. Fannie Varcoe of Fullerton was consoling.

A delightful program included readings and dance numbers by Miss Vera Getty who is an assistant dancing teacher of Claire Cotant and Miss Vivian Rogers a pupil of Holly Lash Visel.

Following the program, guests were seated at two long tables for the refreshment course. The tables were artistically decorated with low baskets of sweet peas, blue cornflowers and yellow iris that carried out the colors of Colorado. Tall yellow tapers, tuile tied, added their loveliness to the appointments.

The hostesses were assisted throughout the day by Miss Joy McCaughy of Fullerton and Miss Carol Van Cleave of this city.

Spanish Work Committee Entertained at Dinner

The committee on Spanish work of the First Methodist church was entertained with dinner at the Mexican Methodist church here last night. The Rev. E. E. Garcia, pastor, gave the report of the year's work. He said the results were gratifying to the efforts made and that the work is constantly growing.

F. W. Wisseman, chairman of the Spanish work committee, presided during a short business session when it was decided to make the dinner meeting a quarterly affair.

Those present included Miss Esther Hendrickson and Miss Davidson, workers at the Mexican church, the Rev. and Mrs. Garcia, the Rev. Dr. George A. Warner, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Wisseman, Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Davis, Mrs. C. W. Burns, Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Jayne, Dr. and Mrs. John Ball P. L. Briney and Miss Olive and Miss Bertha Briney.

Informal Bridge Tea
Honors Mrs. Spruance

Mrs. M. B. Wellington was a charming hostess yesterday afternoon at an informal bridge tea given at her home on Lemon Heights in honor of Mrs. Edie Spruance, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Otis of this city, who has returned to Santa Ana to make her home.

Guests included old friends of Mrs. Spruance who gathered to welcome her as she formerly lived in Santa Ana.

Originality and Charm
Apparent In Smart
Bridge Luncheon

Originality and charm were so apparent in the smart bridge luncheon with which Mrs. M. D. Borgmeyer yesterday entertained a large group of friends at St. Ann's Inn, that the hostess was overwhelmed with congratulations on having achieved so lovely an effect. She modestly disclaimed and responsibility in the matter of decorations however, and explained that the charming effect was due to Mrs. R. L. Bishop alone, who had planned the tables and their appointments in every detail.

The charm of the party was apparent from the minute guests entered the Inn doors, to be greeted by a bewildering array of flowers sent by interested friends of the hostess, to add their charm to her hospitality. Among the donors of the lovely blossoms were Mesdames W. B. Williams, Angus J. Cruickshank, N. A. Beals, Samuel W. Nau, James L. Allen, Mrs. H. C. Kirk, and Mrs. W. H. Haddon, who with Miss Jean Battersby, also aided her sister-in-law in receiving the guests, and presided as hostess at one of the luncheon tables.

Monogrammed Place Cards

Long narrow place cards each bearing Mrs. Borgmeyer's monogram, served also for tallying the afternoon's bridge scores. The tables themselves offered quite the loveliest effect noted at any party this season. Each was in some one of the rainbow colors, with that where Mrs. Borgmeyer presided, offering a glowing rose effect. Rosy tulle was spread over the white linen, and the entire range of chosen colors was repeated in the dainty maidens dancing around the May pole formed from a slender dinner taper. Rose crystal was used at this table, with even the tiny nut baskets conforming to the general effect.

Mrs. Haddon's table was in pale green with table cover, tinted crystal, saucy bonnet nut cups and center basket holding mixed spring blossoms, all in harmony. Especially effective was the table arranged with black tulle over the snowy linen, and centered with two charming Pierrots in scarlet and black, surrounded by tapers in black holders. The sweet pea table was an outstanding one with its rose cover, its delicate sweet peas in a deep blue bowl, reflecting the candle tints, and cunning sweet pea maidens nodding above the nut-cups. Yellow Mexican poppies in a black bowl, used with black bonnet nut cups, amber glass and table cover, was another arrangement that elicited much admiration, while the orchid table with its nodding fleurs de lys in an amethyst bowl, its graceful nut-cups to harmonize, and its amethyst glass; the azure table with delicate Cecil Brunner buds in contrast to the prevailing blue, and the white table with its combination of pale green and rose in candles and petalled nut cups, were other charming variations of the decorative scheme.

Chosen As Setting For Luncheon

The Hacienda Country Club was the charming setting chosen by Mrs. O. Barkman of 2361 Riverine drive, this city, for the bridge luncheon with which she entertained the Las Amigas club one day this week.

The attractive appointments in the dining room harmonized with the beautiful bouquets of orchid and yellow blossoms that centered the luncheon tables. The same gay colors were found in clever little nut cups and place cards that afterwards served as bridge tallies.

Following the bridge games, scores were added and it was learned that Mrs. Leonard C. Stevens of Fullerton was the fortunate possessor of high score while Mrs. H. W. Kime of Anaheim, was second high, and Mrs. A. L. Austin of Santa Ana was low. Each received appropriate gifts.

Cosmos Club of Angel
City Compliments
Local Woman

Passing years rest lightly on the head of Mrs. Sarah M. Tyler, and when her eightieth birthday was celebrated Wednesday at her home, 1825 North Ross street, she was quite the youngest person present. If age is measured by the heart and spirits rather than by actual years.

For many years prior to her coming to Santa Ana, Mrs. Tyler made her home in Los Angeles where she was actively identified with the Cosmos club, a prominent woman's organization of the Angel city. So members of that club motored down Wednesday, to aid her in the proper celebration of such an event as attaining her fourth score years. Each one laden with some especially delectable dish for the luncheon menu, which was served beneath a spreading apricot tree in the charming garden of the home. Featured on the menu were several birthday cakes, one in particular whose snowy icing bore in fancy pink lettering, the name of the honoree and her birthday date. In addition to the appetizing menu, iced punch was served all afternoon from a prettily decorated table.

A feature of the luncheon hour was the informal little talk of congratulations and happily phrased wishes made by Mrs. Helen Bick Daniels. A special table was arranged for the hostess-honoree, and at it were seated her sister, Mrs. Mary E. Barton who aided all day in pleasant hostess duties; Mrs. Frank E. Trask, past president of Huntington Park Ebelle club; Mrs. Mabel Greer Mullin, Mrs. C. S. De Lano and Mrs. Winsworth, past presidents of the Cosmos club; Mrs. Julie Wartenberg, all of Los Angeles, and Mr. and Mrs. James Murray of this city.

Others present were Miss Geraldine Greer, Mesdames Allan Greer, Helen Truslow, Gladys Foster, Lydia W. Burk, Fred Humphrey, James M. Brennan, M. Benson, M. Bruhn, Nell B. Morey, W. F. Dravel, H. D. Hazard, J. Eulton Moore, Ella McClara, Maurice C. McDonald, Gertrude E. Noble, George S. Simpson, Nettie Bledsoe, Cella Katz, Helen Bick Daniels, Adelaide Combs, and J. Edgar Brown. Other friends called during the afternoon to offer their felicitations on the natal day.

Mrs. Tyler and her sister, Mrs. Barton, had arranged for special favors for the guests, selecting some of the dainty gift glasses of Taylor's famous preserves, each tied with bright-colored cellophane paper and cunning little candy posies. They had also planned for entertainment during the afternoon, and placed card tables beneath the trees for those who wished to play bridge, while others found amusement in various contests.

Mrs. Tyler still maintains her beautiful home in Los Angeles, but will remain in Santa Ana for some months to come. She and her sister have the attractive home of Captain and Mrs. Charles C. Oakes during their absence on an extended eastern trip.

Santa Ana Matron Is

Mrs. Wilbur Getty presided in charming fashion over the bridge party with which she entertained the Bridgettes at the home of her sister, Miss Margaret Grant, 715 Orange avenue, recently.

Graceful roses and dainty panicles formed the motif for the affair and were used in profusion throughout the home. The lovely shades were used effectively in supper appointments.

Mrs. John Board, holder of high score, was rewarded with an attractive gift while an equally pretty prize consoling Mrs. Everett Corneel.

Pleasant Day Spent At Beach Cottage

When members of the Past Presidents' club of the Daughters of Union Veterans held a picnic luncheon Thursday in the Good Adams cottage at Balboa Beach, they unwittingly made it a flower shower, for without any pre-arranged plan, each one took with her, a great cluster of the choicest flowers of her garden, until the summer home was literally a-bloom with posies of every color and form.

It made a charming setting for the tables on which the equally varied picnic dishes were spread, and contributed greatly to the general enjoyment of the day. In the afternoon the past officers gathered on the wide veranda overlooking the bay, and quite forgot that they had expected to spend the afternoon in needlework, but gave all their attention to the beautiful view instead.

The sole concession to business matters was made in planning for the mid-summer picnic which is the outstanding social event of the year in their circle.

Master Billy Merrick, three-year-old grandson of Mrs. Louane Leech, added greatly to the pleasure of the party by his enjoyment of the day. Past presidents present included Mesdames Carrie Smith, A. E. Chapman, Edith Ward Moore, Esther Gardner, Eva Bell, Maude Sutton, Elizabeth Adams, Margaret Robertson, Louane Leech and Miss Bertha Belt.

CHURCH SOCIETIES

Annual Banquet

The fifth annual United Presbyterian mother and daughter dinner will be held last evening in the church dining room where covers were laid for 165 guests.

In points of interest and beauty the entertainment was a very lovely and most charming affair. The dinner was under the direction of Miss Martha Smith, who, with a capable committee together with a group of men from the church, served the delectable menu. The successive courses were accompanied by songs led by Sally Lee Seales.

The program for the evening, arranged by Mrs. Scott Torrens, had been built up around the theme of "A Garden of Flowers."

An effective decorative scheme carrying out the theme of the program proved a perfect setting for the activities of the evening.

A May pole with wide flung streamers occupied a central position in the room and the May day dance was further accentuated by sweet-pea nut-cups in pastel tints and harmonizing with other table decorations.

As a prelude to the program Miss Mary Henderson's lovely contralto voice lent itself sweetly to a quaint little number, Hewitt's "Little Old Garden."

Mrs. Paul Olmstead, toastmistress, introduced a group of interesting guests and the toasting of mother and daughter followed.

These relationships were expressed in floral symbols—grandmother through the lavender, mother with the rose, daughter as a bud, while small daughter was most fittingly represented by the dainty forget-me-not.

Speakers in this group included Miss Jean McAuley, Miss Mabel Miller and Mrs. O. S. Johnston, while adorable little Miss Joy Harris completed the toast list with a tribute to mother.

Miss Margaret Finley, a popular young reader, contributed to the program Eugene Fields' "Mother and Child."

The Misses Jane and Ruth McBurney rendered a character song entitled "Daughter's Pie."

Sally Lee Seales sang Trehan's "Mother My Dear."

Providing a specialty on the program was a masque, impressively portrayed, entitled "An Age-Old Dream." The principal role was enacted by Mrs. Leland Finley. Mrs. J. B. Yagser was director of the play.

The general committee on arrangements for this enjoyable evening was under the leadership of Miss Johann Eilers and included representatives from the Daisy Russell circle, who sponsored the affair.

Interesting Speaker
The Rev. J. A. Shirley of Monrovia proved an entertaining speaker yesterday during the luncheon hour in the parish hall, Church of the Messiah, the Woman's auxiliary sponsoring the affair.

Mr. Shirley was a former missionary in the Yukon territory, contiguous to Alaska. The Indians, Eskimos and whites in the Yukon have churches and schools. The latter are built by the government and supported by them, and the teachers supplied by the church.

PLANS TEAS

Miss Olga Peltzer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Peltzer of Anaheim, was hostess recently at a smart musical tea, the first of a series she is planning for the early summer months.

The Indians in a comparatively short space of time have been Christianized and civilized. They are honest, morally sound and are good citizens. The Esquimos formerly living under the blood feud system are now fine citizens obeying the laws, living under rigorous climatic conditions as well as can be expected, keen, born mechanics, and eager to learn. Practically all the Esquimos read and write only a few of the older ones being illiterate, stated Mr. Shirley.

The speaker paid a fine tribute to the Canadian Mounted Police in the world. Composed of men of high principles, of fine physique and splendid morale they have proved themselves friends to white, Indian and Esquimos alike. Tales of their heroism are common in the northland.

Miss King, a teacher in one of the schools spoke briefly of the work, stating that mentally the Indians were slow to learn. The Esquimos are much more alert.

Proceeding the luncheon services were held in the church, where thank offering boxes were presented.

"May Meeting Spirit" was the topic for the address by Rev. W. J. Hatter to an attentive audience.

The afternoon meeting was given over to business of the auxiliary. Mrs. S. R. Byler was appointed chairman of the International Tea to be held at the home of Mrs. E. V. S. Pomeroy, 715 S. Broadway, May 17, at which time it is expected that K. Midsuwa, consul of Japan will be the speaker.

It is interesting, the speaker declared, to note the different types of people who get pleasure from the playgrounds and beautiful flowers, the children who spend most of their time when not busy with school or home tasks on the tennis courts and the old people who sit in the sun and dream happily beside the water lily ponds. Mrs. Middleton told of how the pool is kept sanitary and stated that she knew of no city that had done more to offer wholesome, constructive recreation for its youth than Anaheim.

The MIXING BOWL by ANN MEREDITH

Protect Your Hands
There are a few rare people in this world who can wash dishes, scrub floors, tend the furnace, bare-handed, and still have fine-grained hands. But the other 98 1/2 per cent of our sex must wear rubber gloves or have hands like a ditch-digger's.

As long as dishes must be washed and houses kept clean, why not make the most of the occasion and get some benefit for the hands out of all of it?

First of all, let's consider, the gloves: Buy the heaviest grade of rubber and large enough to slip out of easily. When your work is done rinse the gloves under fresh water before removing them and hang them where they will quickly dry off.

Now, how about the hands: First of all wash them well, give the cuticle a quick pushing back and rub in a generous amount of cold cream or olive oil before slipping on the gloves.

The heat of the water in which your gloved hands will be immersed drives the oil into the hands and nails and gives you a fairly decent imitation of an oil manicure. Hands which are beginning to show age take on a new lease of life.

TODAY'S RECIPE
Stuffed Cherry Salad
1 package lemon jello
2 cups boiling water
1 cup canned cherries
Nutmeg
1 cup diced pineapple
Few grains of salt

A jury of "his peers" shrink back in horror at that red flag, the word "sex."

A COLLEGE PARALLEL
Two members of the Oklahoma Baptist university have been ousted for their compilation of a sex questionnaire given young people in the sociological department.

President W. W. Phelan denounced the questionnaire as "a vile and filthy set of questions designed to corrupt youth."

The "vile and filthy questions" consisted of asking the college youth just how they regarded various socially-labeled "immoralities."

I remember seeing a straight news account of the questionnaire when first published, before all the rumpus arose, and at that time doffed my bonnet to a school intelligent enough to realize that people make social taboos endure or vanish, and that the best way to get an insight into the actual state of many of our accepted "do not's" is to see just what youth thinks about this world made by its elders and what, in its own good turn, it is apt to do about it.

THE ADULT VIEW
There's no use dodging the fact that practically all modern adults were given childhood impressions now carried over into adult life, to the effect that the very word "sex" was degrading and all the facts pertaining unto it thereto.

And there's no use denying the fact that until these "old dogs" are supplanted by their pups, raised in an age which accepts sex in a casual, decent, scientific way, there will continue to be such blots on our national "scutcheon as the conviction of a great and good woman, the damning of a great book, and a damper put upon wise and progressive educational ideas.

If you have left in your fruit cupboard a jar of choice canned cherries resurrect them, for this is their time and place. Pit a cupful and in each cherry insert a bit of nut meat—you may use walnuts, pecans or halved blanched almonds. Prepare the jello according to directions, adding a few grains of salt to take away "that flat taste." When the jello begins to stiffen add the stuffed cherries and diced pineapple and put in molds to stiffen. Serve on lettuce with thin tart mayonnaise.

PEACH SURPRISE SALAD
Use perfect halves of peaches or pears. Mix together enough rich cottage cheese seasoned with pimento cheese to form balls to fill the centers of each peach. After filling the fruit and pinning it together for the moment with toothpicks, dip into red or green fruit coloring, then roll in crushed nuts and set away to chill. Serve on a bed of lettuce with a spoonful of whipped cream mayonnaise over the top. (Remove the toothpicks before serving.)

Either of these salads are nice enough for party use, yet simple enough for everyday. . . . I never could see any sense in keeping all the good-looking and tasteful foods for company use. A very swankily served meal has a disciplinary effect on the manners of small boys and girls.

There are six small portions in the cherry salad with individual calorie values of 90 each, mayonnaise 100 calories per tablespoonful extra, please! The Peach Surprise is worth 250 calories per portion, not counting mayonnaise.

"Budget Life Savers," the current leaflet, is offered free for the last time today if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to this department. This leaflet gives six different recipes, designed to supply nourishing meals at the lowest possible cost.

The leaflet next week will contain information which I am going to call "Household Short Cuts": All sorts of information and ways of doing things condensed into leaflet form.

Sand Brings Health To Child

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

When you give your order for the white-wash line, why not say, "And send about three bushels of nice white sand, too." But of course, nice clean river sand or the mixed variety will do also. But it must be clean and free from dust, mud or little particles of wood or glass that may hurt the baby's fingers.

Oh, yes; I'm talking about a sand pile. There are more quarts and pounds of health in a sand pile than there is in a drug store. But, of course, as is always the case where little children are concerned, wisdom must be used, and care also.

If possible, have the sand pile in a fenced-in yard. If your yard is not fenced in, I should run a width of chicken wire around the small spot fastened to ground stakes. That keeps out stray dogs.

And a strip or two of awning cloth or some other rainproof material should either be arranged overhead or kept in a convenient place to cover the sand pile during showers.

For wet sand is not the best thing in the world to sit in. Often it looks dry on top, when a few inches down it is still damp.

Some people have a carpenter make a platform of boards built at a very slight angle to allow quick drainage, but one of the virtues of the sand pile, in nice warm, dry weather, of course, is contact with the ground itself.

We don't know just what it is meant by "direct contact with the ground," or, rather, why doctors recommend it. It may be that there is a real life-current, electric or otherwise, with old Mother Earth that science has not analyzed. But it is a universally accepted belief that all human beings are directly benefited by this contact, particularly in the sunshine and fresh air.

Days will soon be getting very hot. All children's heads should be protected from the sun by hats. This is very important—of course, preferably in the morning. The sun renovates the sand and keeps it pure.

Officers elected were Mrs. Lilly Shaffer Moore, president; Mrs. E. M. Fox, vice president; Mrs. W. F. Slater, recording secretary and treasurer; Mrs. Sherman Buck, corresponding secretary.

It was found with the mite box opening that $18.44 had been contributed.

Mrs. Joseph Pope, mite box treasurer, and Mrs. C. E. Pratt were in charge of the program which combined the Mother's day with the mite box opening service, and everyone present took a part in the program. A violin solo by Dean Pryor, with his mother, Mrs. J. H. Pryor, accompanying, was appreciated.

Thursday evening, May 23, was set as the evening upon which the missionary women will entertain their husbands and a program was arranged at a committee meeting early this week by Mrs. E. Ray Moore, and Mrs. E. C. Pratt.

Present at the missionary meeting Wednesday were Mrs. G. M. Roberson, Mrs. Elsie Loubau, Mrs. Lee Wentzel, Mrs. Charles Graham, Mrs. E. Ray Moore, Mrs. Ella Forrest, Mrs. E. M. HERE'S DRAWING SHOWING HOW TO BUILD VOUGHT CORSAIR PLANE

Scale models take time and patience, and are judged of measurement and resemblance. Study the drawing thoroughly!

HAMBURG GIVES CORSAIR PLANE INSTRUCTIONS

By MERRILL HAMBURG
Secretary, Airplane Model League of America
(Copyright, 1929, by the American Boy Magazine, Detroit)

Here's another chance for a scale model builder to win himself a national championship and a trip to Europe, all expenses paid.

Two weeks ago the model airplane enthusiasts of Santa Ana learned through the Register, which with the 20-30 club, sponsors the Airplane Model League of America, how to build a scale model of a monoplane, the Stinson-Detrolter. Today I am giving you details of the construction of a fighting, speedy biplane—the Vought Corsair.

As every aviation follower knows, the Corsair is the standard two-seater convertible observation and battle plane of the U. S. Navy. Every scout cruiser and battleship carries two to four of them; the big airplane carriers have squadrons. The Corsair has speed, great maneuverability and can climb. It lands at low speed, and it holds four world's seaplane records for speed and altitude. Besides, it's a snappy looking ship, rakish and with good lines. It should make a corking model.

24-inch Wing Span
Moreover, the plans given here help builders to make a miniature that will conform exactly to requirements for the Second National A. M. L. A. Scale Model Contests, to be held in Detroit June 20-22 by the American Boy magazine. The drawings show a wing span of just 24-inches, and other measurements to this scale. All models entered in the national contests must have this 24-inch span in order to be eligible for cups, cash prizes, medals, certificates and—best of all—the free trip to Europe offered by Frank A. Tichenor, League vice-president and publisher of Aero Digest, to the builder of the first place scale model.

If you want larger drawings than those published on this page, you can obtain them from the Supply Department, A. M. L. A., American Boy Building, Second and Lafayette Boulevards, Detroit, for 20 cents. The larger plans are exact-size—you can measure them with a ruler if you're in doubt about any dimension.

It is impossible to give definite instructions for the building of a scale model. A fellow may make his ship with built-up wing and fuselage, or he may make it solid. He may use wood, metal, cloth, cardboard or plastic material. He may make all parts himself, or buy parts if he can find them of precisely the right size and shape.

Seek Exact Representation
Remember, however, that the important thing in a scale model is exact representation of the big ship. A carefully made built-up ship is likely to indicate somewhat more delicate workmanship than a solid model, carved from balsa, pine, basswood or other wood; but it will rank lower in the judges' decision than the solid ship if the solid ship is more accurate in scale and appearance. Of course, in case of a tie in other respects, the ship that shows better, more careful and more detailed workmanship is going to get the call. This applies to movable parts such as ailerons and rudder, as well as to type of construction.

The first step is to study drawings in detail. Decide just what you are to do; work up diagrams of the various parts you want to build. You'll find this a real help.

The drawing shows a cross-section of the fuselage just back of the rear cockpit. This shape gradually tapers into an ellipse at the forward end. The gasoline tanks are fitted into the fairing on both sides, and help to carry out the perfect streamline elliptical shape which so materially helps to cut down the air resistance of the plane and increases its speed and performance.

Wings Come Next
The two cockpits are almost identical and need no explanation. Notice the extremely long streamlined head rest on the rear one. Both the head rest and wind shield may be removed from the rear cockpit and replaced with a scarf ring, a movable ring placed on the turret around the rear cockpit to mount two free machine guns. These machine guns may be turned around on the scarf ring and fired in any direction. The drawing shows a broken line where the ring sets.

Next the wings. The panels are of the same thickness and section all their length except at the tips, where they are tapered and rounded as shown in the drawings. Two drawings of the airfoil sections used are given with this article. Enlarge them to 3-5-8 and 3-16 inches. Mount them on tin or thin brass and cut out to the lines to make templates for your ribs. If you decide to use solid wooden wings you can cut out external templates to fit these for testing the shape of your section. Thread a cord carefully around a wooden wing at the location of each rib gives the wing the appearance of a built-up job.

Two fixed machine guns are mounted in the center section of the upper wing when the plane is equipped for actual fighting. These guns do not fire through the propeller, but are just outside of its circle. They are plainly shown and dimensioned in the drawing.

The inter-plane struts are of the N type. Remember that they are streamlined and all three are directly in line. The end view of the wing shows a fourth strut directly back of the N struts. This is the "push rod" connecting upper and lower ailerons.

The struts joining the upper wing to the fuselage are about the hardest to locate properly. Study the drawing before you attempt to place them. Keep in mind that there are six of these, three on each side. When viewed from the front they are directly in line. When viewed from the side two of them are parallel and the front one slants well toward the cowlings. All of them slope outward from the fuselage toward the wing tips. The streamline fairing on the N struts ends just before touching the surface, as does that on the upper end of the short struts in the center section.

Doubled For Safety
The lift wires connecting upper wing and fuselage are doubled for safety; the landing wires are single. A small rod joins all of these wires at the line of intersection. Its outer ends pass between the two lift wires, and it is taped to the landing wires where it crosses them. Notice that both landing wires are fastened at their lower ends to the lower end of the front wing strut, while their upper end of the two short wings struts in the center.

The tail surface is clearly shown in the drawings. The horns and control cables operating the movable controls are easily identified and can be easily placed.

The landing gear is shown in the little sketch in the upper left hand corner. Notice how the two cross struts pass.

Remember that you must have every part of your model exact to scale. In some contests planes with parts such as wheels, propellers, and so forth, purchased ready-made, have been penalized, and have even lost chances of winning higher places, because the parts were not true to scale.

When finished, the body of the plane and the wings (except the top of the upper wing) may be painted an aluminum or silver paint, the color used on all U. S.

Navy planes. The upper surface of the top wing as well as the top of the elevators and stabilizer should be painted a "visibility-yellow." The navy uses this color so that the plane may be easily seen from above, if it should be forced to land on water.

Engine Parts Black
The engine parts can be painted black. More details of these may be had by studying photographs of the Pratt and Whitney "Wasp" in the advertisements of aviation magazines.

The location, color and size of the navy star insignia on the top wing are shown, in the drawing. The rudder is painted red, white and blue in three vertical stripes. Take plenty of time to the job. Patience, care and accuracy are the qualities that will win scale model contests. Keep in mind that the scale model does not fly—it can't be properly balanced and powered to attain satisfactory flight.

The Vought is a rakish, breezy ship, and your finished model will be a good looking one. Is a Santa Ana boy going to ride to Europe on the merits of one of them?

HIGH SCHOOL AND JAYSEE NOTES

A recent meeting of presidents of organizations of the Santa Ana junior college revealed that activity in college groups is running at top speed. Besides the Junior Lions convention being sponsored by the local Junior Lions club, a skating party is being planned by the sophomore class, and the Honor society is to enjoy a trip to the Riverside Mission Inn. A commencement breakfast is to mark the close of activities in the French clubs, and the Women's Athletic association today put on sale a handbook covering the field of women's athletics.

Interesting specifications indicated on questionnaires sent out by the Junior college Junior Lions club for the grand ball to be held at the time of state convention of Junior Lions in Santa Ana have been received from the various state organizations by Willard White, general chairman. Every request from flapper blondes to girls who do not hum while the orchestra plays have been included on the questionnaires.

Members of the Press club of the junior college are to sponsor a theater party in the near future at a downtown theater.

That the second annual fiesta at the junior college is to be supported by the students was indicated in answers to questionnaires being distributed this week at the college. Approximately 85 per cent of the students plan to attend the noon day luncheon, while 75 per cent have announced their intentions of being present for the evening dinner to be served on the lawn of the campus to visiting seniors and junior college students. The afternoon program as completed by the committee in charge calls for natural dances, a bull fight, a Spanish burlesque play, a ventriloquist act, songs by the college trio, and violin numbers by Louis Romoff. Following the evening dinner on the lawn and a dance in the gym, the production of Macbeth will be given.

Five stalwart members of the male element of the junior college are the sole survivors today of the mustache and beard contest being sponsored by the O. K. club of the college. May 15 will see the final day of the contest, as barbers from Santa Ana shops will then judge the beards. Prizes will be awarded at that time, although the contestants are expected to retain their long cultivated adornment through the day of the fiesta, May 17.

A decided spring note was achieved at a party of the Spanish club of the junior college held recently in the home of Miss Mary Louise Wallace. Bridge and "500" occupied the evening hours, with Walter Chandler winning the prize for high score and Lawrence Helde taking consolation. Arrangements for the party were made by Mary Louise Wallace, Sussanah Erbe, Phyllis Jamison and Grace Haskel.

JAPANESE RANCH RAIDED FOR BOOZE

A raid conducted by Deputies Howard, Steward and Jemison from the sheriff's office and Chief Bouldin of the Anaheim police force at a Japanese settlement on the Beatty ranch near Bolsa yesterday afternoon resulted in the confiscation of a quantity of liquor and mash and the arrest of K. Miyada, 63, on a charge of possession of liquor.

Search of the several buildings comprising the little settlement revealed three cases of beer, about three gallons of wine, a small amount of sake and approximately 20 gallons of rice mash used for making sake beer and wine.

END OF RAINBOW—

NEW YORK, May 11.—At the end of a rainbow, Joseph Lawless, one-time Indian fighter, hopes to find a pot of gold. Lawless' rainbow is a table which he bought quite a while ago. While knocking around it recently, a hidden drawer was revealed which held a manuscript. The manuscript directed the finder to a pot of gold 110 rods from the elm tree where George Washington directed troop movements from New Brunswick.

SACRIFICE

The wise and conservative investors are placing their bets on South Main street. Can we do better than follow their lead? Two weeks ago I advertised a home on South Main and sold it to the first man I showed it to. This certainly shows confidence. I offer now an even better buy. It is a corner, 55x150, on South Main, near the Junior High, and on it is a large and well constructed modern seven-room frame bungalow and double garage. The price is $7500, and it carries a $5000 straight mortgage at 7 per cent. We must have the equity in cash to close an estate. The property is rented and we do not want the tenants annoyed, so for appointment see or call

EVENING SALUTATION

Knowledge is proud that he has learn'd so much;
Wisdom is humble that he knows no more.
—Cowper.

"MOTHER'S DAY"

Tomorrow is celebrated as "Mother's Day." There is no day which, on account of its associations, makes a more tender appeal or takes a stronger grip on the heart than this one. The very name of "Mother" brings to us memories of her sacrifice, devotion, heroism, labor and suffering, and her smiling, rather than complaining, lips.

It is a day when a sense of obligation comes upon us, a day of searching memory and of hallowed recollections. There is no other term in life so meaningful as "Mother." There is no other personality, as a rule, so steadfast, so unswerving in devotion and, oftentimes, so blind to imperfections.

Those of us who have our Mothers with us still have the opportunity to evidence that gratitude which we all should feel. Those of us who are denied that privilege now, should carry out the Mother's spirit, and thus honor her in perpetuating the same character of life.

And may we suggest, that while the flowers may typify your love and the Mother will appreciate them, yet that which will give her the greatest happiness, is the knowledge that she has a part in the life of her children. It is a joy to her to know that she is needed, that our plans are not complete without her in them, and that the comforts and pleasures of life can not reach their fullness without her assistance. With this realization, the flowers, or the candy may bring the joy as a reminder.

So, let all revere and honor "motherhood" in its deepest and best sense, which goes further than our personal mother who typifies the very spirit of motherhood, which is represented in every woman. And then we may know that this will deepen the memories and value of this day which is set apart.

A man in Brooklyn, arrested for wife beating, was sentenced to kiss his wife every morning for six months. The woman pays and pays.

A NOTABLE CELEBRATION

Today at San Juan Capistrano Hot Springs, the inauguration of the work on the first unit of the San Juan-Lake Elsinor highway is to be observed with appropriate ceremony.

The beginning of this work marks the real consummation of the labors of many men, and more particularly those who have worked on the road committee of the Chamber of Commerce and the members of the Board of Supervisors from that district.

The chairman of the road committee of the Chamber of Commerce for some three years was Mr. Carl Hankey, and for the past two years, Mr. Fred Stoffel of San Juan Capistrano. These two men worked with zeal and intelligence, overcoming many difficulties and obstacles. They had as a co-operator and helper, doing everything possible to bring the project to success, the member of the Board of Supervisors, Mr. George Jeffrey. These three men, today, with all those "Unknown Soldiers" certainly have the right to enjoy great satisfaction from this occasion.

We believe the importance of a new road connecting points and people can hardly be overestimated. To be sure, the immediate animating motive of man in the building of roads usually is that of trade and gain and commercial relationship, and it must be so, or at least gain must be possible, in order to justify large expenditures of money. But at the same time, the establishment of a new highway or the better development of an old one has real moral and spiritual significance. Roads and highways make for human relationships. They bring people together, not only for the exchange of material profits of the farm, the factory and the hand, but they also exchange views and ideas and those things of moral and spiritual worth that make for a better understanding, the respect for personality, and the development of community life.

This road not only will be a valuable asset to San Juan Capistrano, but to all of Orange county. It brings sections of the coast closer to Riverside by miles. There are few things from the labor on which one can get greater satisfaction than road building and road improvement. The road is the most helpful factor in the home, the farm, and the city life, and with which there is no dispute. It is the real friend that never forgets. It is the officer who is always on duty. It is the sentry that never sleeps. It is the employee who never argues. It is the instrument of service that is always ready, quietly waiting, inviting, without aggravation, always dependable.

So, we gladly participate with those whose faithfulness has brought us so near the consummation of this enterprise. We congratulate the Chamber of Commerce and their faithful workers on this day. We appreciate the work of Mr. Jeffrey, as member of the Board of Supervisors, and the wisdom of the Board as a whole, for appropriating money to begin this work. It is another stone that marks the progress of Orange County.

Workmen are tearing down the first steel skyscraper erected in Chicago. Must have been a pretty tough building.

THE PROBLEM OF THE CRIMINAL

Parole Commissioner Arthur D. Woods, of Michigan, said some things in his recently-issued biennial report that are worth reprinting. Read them, especially if you think you know how criminals should be treated after they are arrested:

"Practically all prisoners are victims of three human urges—to live, to love, to learn—enmeshed through excessive gratification of some appetite, propensity or desire.

"They are not a cross-section of the entire population, about 90 per cent are poor, 10 per cent are well to do, and less than two per cent belong to the wealthy class."

That doesn't solve the problem of what to do with the crook, of course. But it does remind us that it's a problem that will take a lot of study. And that, in this day of glib solutions for everything, is something.

THE MILITARY SPIRIT IN THE SOUTH

Prof. Meade of Vanderbilt University writes for the Current History Magazine an article on "The Military Spirit of the South." One familiar with that section can easily see that the peace propaganda is weakest in the South today. The whole educational trend in the South is toward military training. There are more secondary military schools in the states of Virginia and South Carolina than in all the other states put together. The military spirit is traditional in the South. It furnished most of the volunteers for the war of 1812 and the Mexican war. Its enlistments in the cause of the Confederacy in proportion to the population averaged very much more than in the North. There are more Southern officers in the Regular Army today than of any other section. There is more 100 per cent patriotism in the South than anywhere else in the country. The South reverences war, rather than fears it.

But a change of attitude on the question is discernible. The growth of industrialism is responsible for the change. The South has always been poor. It did not have so much to lose by war as the commercial and industrial North. But now that the South is reaching out for some of the country's industrial prosperity, it is beginning to shy from any attitude which would have a tendency to disturb trade and manufacture and commerce. We venture to predict that another twenty-five years, if the South continues to grow industrially, will bring about a great change on this question. At present, however, we shall find that the greatest support for jingoism and for a belligerent war spirit is in the South. It is still in the blood. The fact that it has brought disaster to the South in the past has not yet sunk in. Gun toting, lynching, the emphasis on personal honor, the invoking of the unwritten law, die hard. But more and more, as the South comes to share with the rest of the country the fruits of prosperity, these products of a former life of chivalry will disappear. The result will be a more constructive and a more peacefully inclined South.

Judging by the number of parked cars, the disarmament question hasn't reached as far as the public parks.

SUGAR FROM THE PHILIPPINES

There is considerable stir among the sugar producers in the country over the proposed tariff on sugar from the Philippines. Secretary Stimson, recently General of the Islands, has made the statement that in putting a tariff on Philippine sugar we are breaking faith with the people of the islands. On the other hand, those who favor the tariff say that unless there is a tariff placed on Philippine sugar, the American sugar producers will be ruined.

This is a strange situation. The Philippines are a part of the United States. They are a part of the United States by compulsion. Why, then, should there be any discrimination against any integral part of the United States? Why not put a tariff on Hawaiian or Porto Rican products? It may be said that the Philippines occupy a different status, but that is hardly convincing when the Constitution recognizes no territory which does not possess equal rights with all the rest of the national territory.

We agree with Secretary Stimson. The Philippines should not be discriminated against by tariff legislation, any more than any other part of the territory of the United States. Under such circumstances New England might claim a tariff on Southern textiles because that section of the country has already put so many textile mills in New England out of business. If the Philippines are not to have the same privileges and rights as other parts of the territory of the United States, their claims to independence should be granted immediately. We have condemned other nations for exploiting their colonies. Why should we for a moment think of doing what we have condemned in others? Either the Philippines are part of the United States, or they are not. If they are, they should not be discriminated against, even though their products come into competition with industries of Continental United States. If they are not to have the same rights, we should be consistent and let them have their independence.

Reactionary Insolence

The Commonweal

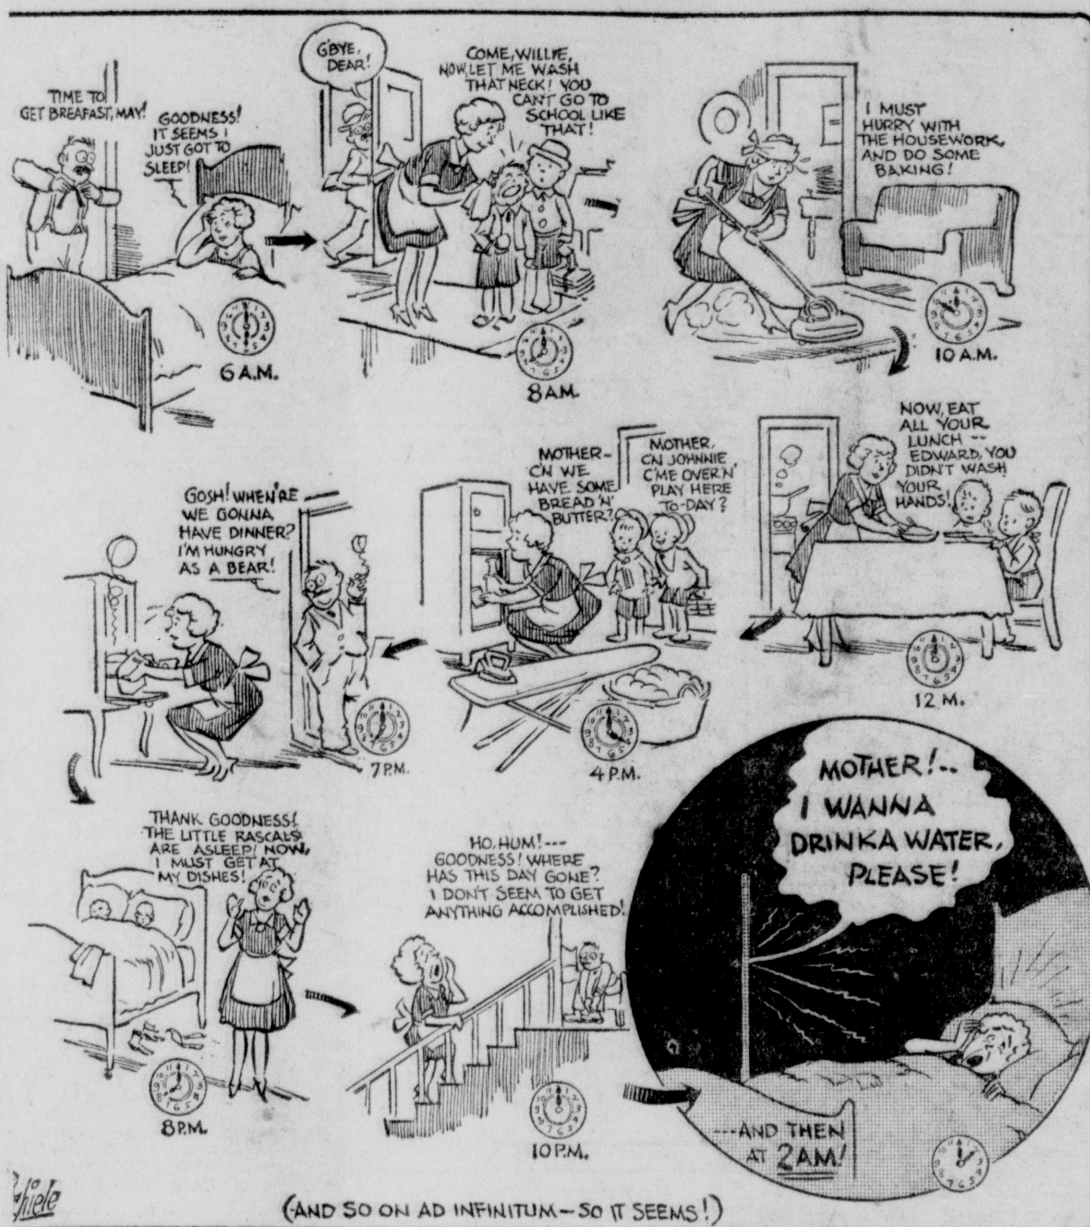

The recent meeting of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association in New York was made especially interesting by its discussion of the Minnesota newspaper suppression law. This statute, which was passed in 1925, puts it into the power of a judge of that state to suspend, without benefit of jury or indeed any sort of preliminary hearing, any publication which he may think guilty of printing "malicious, scandalous or defamatory articles." In adopting a report on this law which stigmatized it as "tyrannical, despotic, un-American and oppressive," the Association was not expressing itself with undue vehemence. Whatever the local extenuations for such a measure, it is a reversal of achievement in one of humanity's hardest-fought fields. It is wrong in principle, and of the most ominous practical import since, in the words of the report, "it furnishes the fetters whereby corruption in office may completely enslave and debase our free institutions without fear of public exposure." Freedom, like virtue, is one; the freedom of the press cannot thus be menaced and other forms of freedom remain secure. There should be general approval of the Association's determination to work actively for the repeal of what is, in effect, a piece of reactionary insolence.

Untamed Elements

Pasadena Star-News

Elemental disasters have been alarmingly ruinous in various parts of the United States during the last two months. Deaths from floods and tornadoes are estimated at three hundred, with about two thousand injured and with property losses running into millions. Seventeen states have suffered from these visitations. These disasters impress their own lesson. In the matter of floods, they stress the need of scientific control of floods. The economic value of this would be very great. In the matter of tornadoes, it behooves communities lying in regions subject to such terrific disturbances, to have safe retreats into which they can go upon the approach of a storm. During seasons when tornadoes are most likely to occur it may develop that a system of giving the alarm to residents in the path of an approaching tempest, may be worked out.

Mother's Day--Twenty-Four Hours Long!

More Truth Than Poetry.

By James J. Montague

THE CONQUERING FOE

As yet no adequate means has been found to stem the advancing tide of destructive beetles.

We have terrorized the lion on the Niger

Till he shrinks away before the face of man,

We've relentlessly pursued the tawny tiger

Till he never ventures out of Hindustan.

Great white bears, which once were found in teeming legions,

Having learned what human brains and nerve can do,

Can be found alone in farthest polar regions

Save the ones that we have captured for the zoo.

We have tamed or cowed the wildest of the varmints,

Wolf and badger, mink and fox are lying low

Lest we take their furry vestments for our garments

Or coral them for exhibits in a show.

There is not the slightest doubt that man is mighty,

All these creatures from his pathway to evict,

But he hadn't better get too highly tighty

For the little crawling beetle has him licked.

Without ever chirping "Please" or "Beg your pardon"

He arrives in waxing numbers every year

Pitches camp in every field and lawn and garden

And proceeds to dine upon it, blade and ear.

He will lap up every sort of poison mixture;

He will thrive on drinks like arsenate of lead

When he once is here, thereafter he's a fixture

Thrusting man aside to gain his board and bed.

Man has tamed the raging ocean with his power,

From his path the mighty mountains he has hurled

He can send his voice a million miles an hour

But he cannot boast that he's subdued the world.

With his planes he rends the highest clouds asunder

But he still must hold the rein on his conceit,

For it's certain that he can't be such a wonder

When a little creeping beetle has him beat.

CREDIBLE REPORT

Mr. Walker will run again for Mayor of New York this year and there are grounds for belief that he will be in the city on election day.

FIFTY FIFTY

The statesmen of the world seem to be about equally divided in the advocacy of soul elevation and gun elevation.

ONE CONCLUSION

After a little hard study we have decided that Mr. Einstein's idea is a theory and not a condition.

Is Gold A Standard Of Value

By WILLIAM TRUFANT FOSTER and WADDILL CATCHINGS

AUTHORS OF "THE ROAD TO PLENTY"
NOTE.—Dr. Foster, eminent economist, is head of the Pollak Foundation for Economic Research; Mr. Catchings, renowned banker, began his career as a law clerk. The two have studied economics in all its phases, from the scientific viewpoint and from the practical. The keynote of their writings is: Prosperity can be made permanent.

Even in gold standard countries the value of money varies greatly. In the United States, in 1896, a gold dollar would buy over fifty per cent more than in 1913. But in 1920 a gold dollar would buy less than half what it would buy in 1913.

During one period carpets came nearer than gold to being a "standard" or measuring purchasing power, in the sense in which the yard stick is a "standard" for measuring carpets. In other words, the exchange value of carpets, in terms of boots, bonbons, barrels, and commodities generally, varied much less than the exchange value of gold.

Moreover, the value of gold may fall suddenly, because of the discovery of new mines, or new methods of mining, or processes of making gold out of baser metals, or extracting it from the sea. Such discoveries do not seem as impossible as the radio seemed a generation ago.

Money on a gold basis is a standard of purchasing power for only one commodity; namely, gold. That is an advantage to dentists. They always know precisely how much gold a dollar will buy. But, unfortunately for the rest of us, it is almost always something else that we want to buy.

In order to make the dollar a "standard," it is not enough to keep it on a gold basis. Gold is not, and never has been, a standard of value.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By Glenn Frank

POPULARIZING KNOWLEDGE

I was a journalist before I became a university president. I have, therefore, had intimate contact with these two important types of men.

Men whose primary concern is the production of knowledge.

Men whose primary concern is the popularization of knowledge. Unhappily for the future of society the producers and the popularizers of knowledge do not always get along well together.

The producers are likely to think the popularizers superficial. And all too often the grounds for suspicion are good in both cases. Each can learn much from the other.

The producer can teach the popularizer to be accurate. The popularizer can teach the producer to be articulate.

And, may be, in some happy day the producer and the popularizer may be one.

The greatest danger confronting modern civilization is not that we shall fail to produce knowledge but that we shall allow the results of our researches to gather dust in our files.

And so, just in passing, I want to remind the producers of knowledge of some of the great popularizers who, by bringing art the service of knowledge, have really thrust the results of thought and research into the stream of common thought and made the vital factors in the life of common men and women everywhere.

The ancient Egyptians popularized knowledge of their history, their traditions, and even of the heresies of their leaders through friezes, frescoes, and bas-reliefs in their temples and public buildings.

Herodotus, the father of history, set a standard of popularization that has kept H. G. Wells's and Will Durant very busy.

Thomas More's Utopia was only a brilliant venture in popularization. Bacon's New Atlantis was a specimen of popularization.

Martin Luther's pamphleteering was popularization extraordinary. Voltaire's brilliant output was popularizing achievement.

Dante popularized abstract and abstruse theology.

Popularizers are not always hacks; they sometimes rise to the dignity of artists.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

COMPLETION.

There is one little point about children's growth that is often overlooked. It is little more than a word. In reality, in power, it is mighty.

Children make growth through many and varied stages. Some of these last but an hour, some for a lifetime, depending upon the character of the child and his training.

But each growth, short or long, must be completed. The child must feel that he got all there was to get out of the idea.

Little children have a strong desire to touch things. This touching, handling stage is very trying to the adults. Things are soiled, broken, lost because the children must handle them. The whole family unites in saying, "Don't touch."

This is one of the stages of growth most important to the child. He must touch things until that stage of growth is complete. Eye knowledge is not enough because children cannot see perfectly. The whole of the sense power of the child is needed to give him full knowledge of the things about him and touch comes first.

It is not possible to let children handle everything they see. But it is possible to so arrange their daily experiences that they can touch all that is necessary, furnish them with sufficient touch experience to give that phase of growth the fullness it demands.

This complete expression of growth phases is necessary because each succeeding phase depends upon the strength of the preceding one. If any one phase is incomplete the child will be time be very likely to go back and complete it. Because he has lost that stage of growth he is going back will be very embarrassing for him and his people, yet he cannot help it.

A baby wants to handle things. Provide him with a place and the things necessary for his experimenting and let him complete it to his satisfaction. He wants to make strange sounds. Provide the place and occasion according to the conditions. It is necessary that he repeat the same movement again and again. Let him do so. He is training his mind and body rhythmically and there is a reason for his doing so.

By and by the child reaches a stage where he wants to do things. Let him try himself out. You have to use discretion here, but you keep in mind the principle of child growth, completion of each stage as it arises—you will not be far wrong.

Children want music lessons, they want to drop them. They want to build things and they start, but for a time, and then forget about it. They talk and plan and do. Let them talk it out and never discourage their expressing the thought that is in them. Each phase of growth is important itself. The parent and teacher must pray for wisdom to follow the child's lead and direct it to that lies true education.

ON THE SIDELINES

Which may or may not be in accord with the views of The Register

By Horace McPhee

IT'S GOING TO BE AWFUL—

There remains quite a considerable number of American citizens who were called upon to take part in the war between the states, and, as most people know, it was some scrap.

Then, later on, came the Spanish-American war, which served as a "curtain-raiser" for the frightful conflict known as the World War. But for downright frightfulness, and unrelenting cruelty, none of them will go down into history as comparable to the war for social precedence which is now on, after several months of internal strife, which indicated a probable war to the death.

This was precipitated when, on Saturday last, Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth flatly refused to attend a formal dinner, to which she was one of the invited, because Mrs. Gann, the sister of the vice president, was to be seated ahead of her. And so the conflict, which, in the words of the old hymn, promises to be "fearful and long," is on.

The "seats of the mighty" are going to be rocked as never before, for, in this land of Equality and Democracy, when we fight over the matter of who shall have social precedence over whom, we stop at nothing.

It may well be that, until this cruel and devastating war is over, mere men will do well to follow the example of Mr. Gann, husband of the good lady over whom all this fuss is being raised. Mr. Gann, at the first indication of trouble, adopted the tactics so common in the recent World War and "dug in" where, he fondly hoped, war's alarms may not come.

His example is one well worthy of emulation.

AN ATTEMPT THAT FAILED

—Once in a while the supreme court of the state of California renders a decision which is based upon plain common sense, fairness, and with a due regard for the law as it is set down in the codes.

A case in point is the decision rendered by the court last week wherein the county of Ventura had brought suit to recover $57,000 from a former county assessor.

This sum had been retained by the assessor for his own personal use, so to speak, upon the ground that it represented six per cent of his collection on unsecured personal property.

The property in question was oil leases and the county claimed that the assessor had classified it wrong in order to retain his six per cent commission for collecting the taxes thereon. A suit brought in the superior court was decided in favor of the assessor and it looked as if the law which forbids the raising of a public official's salary during his term of office was not to be regarded as a binding in Ventura county. But an appeal to the supreme court overruled the decision of the lower court, and frowned upon the attempt of the former assessor to grab off in one year the not inconsiderable sum of $57,000.

IT IS QUITE POSSIBLE—That the people of California are putting their money into airplane promotion is shown by the report recently issued by Corporation Commissioner Friedlander.

The report discloses that during the past eighteen months, more than $50,000,000 have been invested in airplane promotion companies in this state.

It has come to be the case that the citizen of California who does not own an automobile is regarded as an exceptional person, and it may be that the airplane is destined to achieve equal popularity.
